October 15, 2015

Dear RECAP Supporter,

Thank you for joining us tonight on this momentous occasion.

Since 1965 RECAP has provided vital services to area residents. Our programs, including job training, early learning, senior housing, and case management have helped thousands in the past 50 years. Every effort, from a simple document translation to helping a recently released inmate make a successful transition back into the community, helps not just our clients, but our neighbors and community as a whole.

In 50 years we’ve seen so many positive changes within RECAP, in Orange County, and in society as well, but we still have a long road to travel to address the crippling impact of poverty on our community. Helping people become self-sufficient and improving the community has always been our mission and we’re proud of its enduring strength.

We didn’t reach this milestone on our own and thank you for being here, and we hope we can count on your continued support in years to come.

Sincerely,

John Cappello

The War on Poverty

The Regional Economic Community Action Program, like many Community Action Agencies, traces its roots to Lyndon Johnson’s presidency. When President Johnson took office in 1963, he proclaimed that all Americans could live in prosperity and thought to accomplish this through reform.

In his January 8, 1964 State of the Union Address, Johnson declared an unconditional war on America’s poverty and challenged citizens to build a “Great Society”. Organizations and agencies were established and they developed a model, the Community Action Program, that could eradicate poverty from the ground up. This model gave people the power to identify problems affecting their own communities and the resources to bring change.

We proudly support RECAP.

Thank you for your 50 years of dedicated service to "Our Community!"

He lives in Campbell Hall with his wife, Mary, and daughter, Joan.

JOHN D. PAGAN

John was born in Bronx, New York and later graduated from Pine Bush High School. At 7 years old he was inspired by Bridges at Toko-Ri, a movie about a Korean War fighter pilot. He followed his dream of becoming a member of the U.S. Air Force and served as a fighter jet crew chief, and later as a helicopter mechanic in civilian life with Petroleum Helicopters out of Lafayette, Louisiana. His last duty station was with the Flying Tigers, the same historical unit from WWII who confronted the Japanese almost immediately after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

John joined RECAP’s Board of Directors in 2001 and served as 1st VP and President, as well as on the facilities and finance committees. He is the President of the Mill Street Partners Board of Directors, and has for the last 32 years been an agent with Allstate. On March 3, 1980 he assumed his leadership role at RECAP. During his tenure the organization grew to become a powerful advocate for the area’s low-income and disenfranchised populations until he retired in 2014. He has won numerous awards including the Orange County Human Rights Award, Middletown’s NAACP Award, and was granted a key to the City of Middletown. He is married to JoAnne Gurda and has one son, 4 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren. He lives in his hometown of Armory, Mississippi.

The Mill at Middletown
A WORK IN PROGRESS.

Wednesday, June 24, 2015 – The City of Middletown, The Community Preservation Corporation, Inc. (CPC), New York State Homes and Community Renewal (HCR) Mill Street Partners, and RECAP joined local officials and partners today to break ground on the Mill at Middletown, a 3-story factory building which is slated to be converted into a 42-unit workforce housing development. Located at 34 Mill Street, the Mill at Middletown will also provide community space as well as job training through the Fresh Start Café managed by RECAP.

“This is a fine example of re-adaptive use of industrial buildings in our City. Development of this vacant factory structure will include workforce training and housing for our citizens. We are happy to lend our support for this important project,” said Middletown Mayor Joseph DeStefano.

“CPC has been investing in Middletown and working closely with its Business Improvement District for many years. Restoring historic buildings like the Mill at Middletown is part of our larger effort to revitalize a downtown community that has seen housing and jobs evaporate,” said Mary Paden, Vice President in CPC’s Hudson Valley Office. “Factories or old buildings that have been vacant for years are common in many Hudson Valley communities. This transformation will not only meet the increasing need for affordable housing with easy access to necessary services that will help enhance residents’ lives; it will also bring new life to the City’s central business district.”

Originally built in the late 19th century as a silk hat factory, the restored and renovated main factory building will house 42 families in 17 one-bedroom, 22 two-bedroom, and three 3-bedroom apartments with one of the two-bedrooms reserved for an on-site superintendent. All units will be available to families earning between 30% to 50% of the area median income (AMI). In addition, the front portion of the main factory building will become the home of the third location of the Fresh Start Café, a successful café and job training program run by RECAP. One of the original factory’s accessory buildings will also be converted into a community hall for residents of the Mill development. Additional amenities will include on-site parking and laundry facilities. Designed by Magnusson Architecture and Planning (MAP), based in New York City, the updated buildings will meet or exceed the New York State Energy Conservation code requirements.

James S. Rubin, Commissioner/CEO of New York State Homes and Community Renewal said, “One of the most significant things we can do to help improve the quality of life in communities is to turn underused buildings and properties into strong neighborhood assets. By redeveloping the Mill at Middletown, we are addressing the need for more affordable housing for Orange County families, preserving an important piece of Middletown’s rich manufacturing history and transforming this long-vacant structure into state-of-the-art housing. Thanks to the HCR team, and congratulations to Mill Street Partners, the Community Preservation Corporation, and all of our other partners in this exciting endeavor.”

“We are thrilled that the Mill at Middletown is under construction and will soon provide high quality affordable housing to many Middletown families as well as jobs and job training to City residents. We are very grateful to all of our partners, in particular, the City and Mayor DeStefano for their leadership in helping to make this project a reality,” said Patrick Normoyle, Principal of Mill Street Partners, the developer of the project.
A number of public and private partners came together to finance this project. CPC provided a $7.4 million construction loan and is slated to provide a $1.8 million permanent loan through the New York State Common Retirement Fund. HCR allocated $8.7 million in Low Income Housing Tax Credits with Raymond James Tax Credit Funds, Inc. as the syndicator, as well as a $1.7 million loan through the Housing Trust Fund. Additional contributions include a $600,000 grant from the Orange County’s HOME Program, $820,000 from the Federal Home Loan Bank, and $91,000 from the Urban Initiative. JJ Sisca & Associates Corporation will oversee the construction and Rural Ulster Preservation Group will manage the property when completed.

Darryl Seavey, Managing Director Northeast Region for Raymond James Tax Credit Funds, Inc. said, “Raymond James is thrilled to participate as the equity partner in the development of the Mill at Middletown. The project brings new life and vitality into an abandoned building, which had historically been a centerpiece of community activity in Middletown, while at the same time providing high quality affordable housing opportunities for area residents for many years. Congratulations to all our partners on this exciting collaboration.”

RECAP at a Glance

SUPPORTIVE HOUSING
RECAP’s Supportive Housing programs are designed to assist homeless or potentially homeless families and individuals in the Orange County area. Each family is assigned a case manager who helps set goals to regain stability and self-sufficiency. The relationship between participants and case managers is an important part of the process. Residences include the Community Re-Entry Project (CREP), Avent House, the Doris B. Christopher Senior House, FOCUS Building, Hasbrouck House, and PACER House in Middletown. Also available are rental assistance opportunities with Housing opportunities for People with AIDS (HOPWA), Shelter Plus Care, and Veterans Shelter Plus Care.

NUTRITION & ADVOCACY
RECAP’s Nutrition Program operates the Emergency Food Pantry and a daily supply of free breads and cakes. We organize the annual Thanksgiving Basket Drive. Donations are sourced throughout the community and packages are distributed just before Thanksgiving. Advocacy services include translations and help accessing community resources. Bilingual Services are available.

ADDITION TREATMENT
The TRUST Center provides outpatient treatment services to people suffering from alcohol and drug addiction. Services include counseling, relapse prevention, anger management, education, and communication and skills development. Treatment is trauma-informed and collaborative with other agencies. Integrated care is available for individuals with both an addiction and mental health diagnosis.

Our New Life Manor community residence provides men in recovery with a bridge between intensive treatment and sober independent living. It offers housing, structured skills training, and the opportunity to socialize with other residents in a supportive environment during recovery.

ENERGY CONSERVATION
The Weatherization Program strives to help residents save energy dollars, increase the comfort in a home, reduce dependence on energy sources, and revitalize neighborhoods. Services include insulation, energy-efficient light bulbs and appliances, smoke and carbon monoxide detectors, and the testing and service of heating systems.

PAROLE RE-ENTRY
Promotes the effective reintegration of offenders back into communities upon release from incarceration using a comprehensive case management approach. Participants are helped to acquire the life skills needed to succeed in the community and become law-abiding citizens.

JOB TRAINING WITH FRESH START CAFÉ
The café’s on-site culinary arts programs takes long-term welfare recipients from the local community and teach them the skills required to seize a successful career in the restaurant industry.

Each apprentice is extensively trained in both front and back of house duties with emphasis on safety and sanitary food handling. In addition to culinary skills, trainees learn the soft skills required for long term employment. In July 2010, the program expanded to include a second location in Newburgh.
IN-HOME ASSESSMENT PROGRAM
Contracted through the Orange County Department of Social Services, RECAP’s IHAP Case Managers provide a strength-based assessment of eligible individuals and families. This assessment identifies strengths and helps plan the client’s path to attain their goals. It covers areas including financial, educational, vocational, psycho-social, housing, family, legal, medical, and safety.

HEAD START
A federally-funded program for preschool children from low-income families which prepares children for success in school through a comprehensive family program. The program helps break the cycle of poverty by meeting not only the educational needs of families, but also the emotional, social, health, nutritional aspects of child development. There are three centers in Middle-town, Scotchtown, and Port Jervis.

NEIGHBORHOOD PRESERVATION COMPANY
RECAP’s Neighborhood Preservation Company Program (NPC) provides a range of community improvement efforts focusing on the housing needs of low- and moderate-income residents. Projects include the renovation of older homes and new construction developments. The NPC assists homeowners needing renovations and those trying to stay in their homes. We focus on reducing housing costs, promoting employment, and new business development.

NEWBURGH SERVICES
2015 brought a big expansion to RECAP’s services for Newburgh residents. In late 2014 the NYS Department of State designated RECAP as the Community Action Agency for Newburgh. The designation, along with our convenient location on Broadway, helps us bring much-needed assistance to underserved populations. Our services include employment support and training, nutrition and advocacy, translations, and help accessing important documents and services.
